Carnival awards presented

FARNHAM Carnival entered its concluding phase earlier this month with an awards ceremony to two local primary schools.

Carnival organisers Farnham Lions and The Hedgehogs, represented respectively by Keith Aston and Colin Jordan, visited St Polycarp's School where they rewarded the school's interpretation of the theme 'Waterloo' comprising of immaculately and colourfully dressed toy soldiers and a distinctly canine looking Duke of Wellington, by presenting a framed certificate and the 'Henry Liu Trophy' for the Best School.

The awards were accompanied by individual certificates for all those who participated. Headteacher Ann Gunn expressed the school's appreciation of the organisers' hard work in putting on a "spectacular" carnival.

Colin and Keith accompanied by Stephen Morgan of local chartered accounts Wise & Co, later paid a visit to St Peter's School where they were delighted to make a new award. The award was donated by Steven's firm, recognising Innovation and Creativity for the school's interpretation of this year's theme as wearable taxis.

The glass award was instantly nicknamed 'The Shard'. It was accompanied by a framed certificate, individual certificates for the participants and a 'Mini-Shard' which, unlike the main award, the school will keep forever. Headteacher Sarah Dunning thanked the carnival organisers for arranging such a "wonderful" event.
