Lifesaver deserves the highest praise

Sir, – Last week's Herald headline article, taken by itself, records a notable rescue effort by a member of our community. However, I, as the beneficiary of a similar intervention by this person, need to stress a particular point.

On both occasions she was driving to a distant destination with some of her family; on both occasions she could have driven by with a clear conscience, as others were at the scene. The truly remarkable thing is that on both occasions she didn't and two lives were saved.

Joanna Michaelides deserves the highest acknowledgement of her spirit and commitment this community can offer. She insists that she is "Ordinary"; I think something extra needs to be added to that!
